Valley raises £663 for hospice

A RESOUNDING success. That's how the Findon Valley Society and local businesses in the valley have described the first annual late night opening event which was held on Kings Parade.

The Findon Valley Society, local businesses and members of the local community all joined forces in one night and put on an event to be remembered, with children's competitions, treasure hunts, and a merry-go-round and candy floss stalls all helping to raise money for charity.

David Goncalves, chairman of the Findon Valley Society, said, "The event was such a success, with an unprecedented number of children, parents and other members of the community all coming along to help raise money for the Chestnut Tree House Appeal. We plan many more charity fundraising events in the future."

The branch manager of Jacobs Steel Estate Agents at the far north end of the parade went further to agree with the chairman. He said: "It was a vibrant night from start to finish and gave a long-lasting impression of the sense of community felt by everyone in the area. I am looking forward to the next Christmas late night opening event with much anticipation."

The event raised £663.36 for The Chestnut Tree House Appeal, which is the only children's hospice in Sussex, and they, along with the organisers and business owners of the event, would like to thank everyone who attended for their generous donations throughout the evening.
